

COMM. UNITY

communications for the community

Partnering Syracuse University students with non-profit organizations in the Syracuse community since 2007

About comm.UNITY

comm.UNITY is a student-run organization at Syracuse University that works with local non-profit community organizations on a yearly basis to help them create and improve sustainable communication plans. Organizations that partner with us work with a group of dedicated, motivated students who will empower the organization by developing communications solutions and then providing the knowledge necessary to continue these plans.
